Definitions and Examples of unacceptable behaviour

Ipswich Town Football Club and Ipswich Town Community Trust understands that people may act out of character in times of frustration or distress. Our staff recognises this and as such, would not necessarily view a complainant's actions or behaviour to be unacceptable solely because they appear to be assertive or determined.

However, the actions of complainants who are angry, demanding or persistent may result in unreasonable demands, on or unacceptable behaviour towards Ipswich Town Football Club and Ipswich Town Community Trust staff. It is these actions or behaviour that we consider unacceptable and aim to manage under this guidance. We have grouped these actions or behaviour under two broad headings: aggressive, offensive or abusive actions or behaviour and unreasonable demands or persistence. All our staff have the right not be subjected to any of this behaviour regardless of the circumstances.

Examples of actions or behaviours grouped under these headings are:

- Threats
- Physical violence
- Personal verbal abuse
- Derogatory remarks
- Rudeness

These can also be committed online via social media.

There may be some instances when an individual may have unreasonable demands which may make it difficult for the complaint to be dealt with efficiently and effectively. These include:

- Requesting responses within an unreasonable timescale
- Insisting on seeing or speaking to a particular member of staff
- Continual phone calls, emails or letters
- Changing the substance of the complaint
- Raising unrelated concerns.
